1914	The New Zealand Society of Civil Engineers is incorporated, embracing civil, mechanical and electrical engineers. Dissatisfaction with this title leads to a change in name
1937	Name changed to The New Zealand Institution of Engineers (NZIE)
1943	The Professional Engineers' Association of New Zealand (PEA) is established by a Wellington group of NZIE members to regulate all matters relating to the welfare of engineers, which were not previously covered by NZIE's jurisdiction. From this point onwards, PEA is responsible for administering all issues relating to: salaries, conditions of appointment, appeals, scales of fees, conditions of engagement and the status of engineers.
